DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to Applicant's response to Restriction/Election.

Group II, which includes claims 25-30 and 36-39, is elected. Claims 1-24 and 31-34 have been canceled. Note that claims 27 and 37 are also withdrawn from consideration because it should belong to Group I (no electrical response involved). Also, claim 37 depend on claim 24, which is a canceled claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 28-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The reference fails to disclose how the change in conductivity, capacitance, and weight of the material is detected and used to indicate the liquid detection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 25- rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Purtell et al. (US Patent No. 4,246,575).

Claim 25:

Purtell discloses a method of detecting liquid, the method, comprising:

- a. providing a material 10
- b. using the material to absorb the liquid;
- c. detecting a change in material characteristic while the liquid is absorbed by the material (swelling or expansion of the material, see abstract); and
- d. generating a signal 30 in response to said change in characteristic.

Claim 26:

The change in material characteristic of material 10 is change in size.

Claim 28:

The material characteristic in Zand is conductivity.

Claim 36:

Purtell discloses a method of detecting liquid, the method comprising:

Art Unit: 2636

- a. detecting a change in size when the liquid is absorbed by a capillary material (swelling or expansion of the material, see abstract); and
- b. generating a signal 30 responsive to said change in size of the capillary material.

Claim 38:

The material in Zand includes a capillary material.

Claim 39:

The fiber disclosed in Zand includes a capillary fiber.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2636

6. Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Purtell et al. (US Patent No. 4,246,575) in view of Gustafson (US Patent No. 3,824,460).

Claim 29:

Purtell fails to disclose detecting liquid in a material by detecting a capacitance change. However, this concept is well known in the art as discussed in Gustafson. Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use modify the system and use this method in the Purtell system as desired because it is equivalent to the method disclosed in Purtell.
